

The Dvoraks, who created a sensation by a one night performance in "Pirates of Penzance," here at one of the theatres a few seasons ago, are to be re-organized for a production of the same comic opera at the True Reformers Hall, during the present season. Probably before the holidays, a meeting will be called for some evening next week and arrangements will be made. Good enough. The public has wondered why this organization which was such a credit to the race has not revived long since. Mr. J. Henry Lewis will please now start the wheel going.

APPARENTLY NOT.

We've wireless wires and horseless cabs,
But will we ever own
A cussless, waitless, out-of-orderless,
Birless telephone?
—Life.
